

CGHE ANNUAL CONFERENCE SESSION

Tuesday 11 May 2021, 5.10pm-6.00pm

Too many graduates? – Perpetuating or challenging inequalities

Chair: James Robson. Speakers: Paul Ashwin, Claire Callender, Golo Henseke

In public debates, questions are increasingly being raised about whether we now have too many graduates. In this panel session, we will draw on data from three CGHE projects to discuss whether the increasing number of graduates serves to perpetuate or challenge social inequalities.
