

Graduate Outcomes in UK Transnational Higher Education: a Case Study of the United Arab Emirates, 22 March 2022

00:47:50 Simon Marginson: Colleagues there are 130 people online now which is great. Who would like to come into the Q&A? Post your questions or comments in the Chat now

00:48:56 Glen Chatelier: To what level did this study in the UAE measure cases of ups killing, re-skilling or equipping the switch in careers given that most respondents were in Business/STEM education programs?

00:55:49 Nurmala Elmin Simbolon: While I am writing the question, the prevention on this question is on. My question now is what do the 15% of graduates do in the 3rd country? And is there some graduates living the UK? Thank you

00:58:58 Duncan Lampard: Thank you very much for the presentation. Which of the findings (or which part of the process) surprised the team the most?

01:00:15 Miguel Antonio Lim: Many thanks to all for the study. 2 questions: Just a quick one methodology: for employment, did you pattern your survey on existing instruments (ie the UK DLHE). And more generally, you mentioned that you also studied well-being and attitudinal aspects (apart from employment and mobility): could you comment more on your findings in these areas? (I do not have access to a microphone at the moment and if this question is included, may I ask that it be asked on my behalf - Thanks! Miguel U.Manchester)

01:03:13 ANAN CHEN: Thank you very much for the presentation! I am curious about the qualitative interview part. I am wondering did you use the interview to dig deeper into the survey responses or you try to investigate the causal relationship of TNE and graduate outcomes more in this stage?

01:07:04 Miguel Antonio Lim: Thanks Simon - could you ask it on my behalf? - I'm in a busy university café with a poor microphone... Hope that's ok

01:08:10 Miguel Antonio Lim: apologies, colleagues, that message was for Simon.

01:15:14 Victorița Trif: Thank you!

01:16:15 CRISTINA DE CARVALHO: Thanks Tristan, Lee, Golo and Katariina for really interesting research and presentation.

01:16:18 Dr. Bhaskar C.: seems impactful research study. Thanks CGHE and team.

01:19:56 Nurmala Elmin Simbolon: Thank you, Lee and Katariina, I can see social cultural surrounds this particular finding or the COVID could be one factor. Very interesting for my learning especially.

01:20:29 CGHE Webinars: You can also register for our Annual Conference on 24-25 May 2022 here: <https://www.cgheconference2022.com/>
