

You've seen the book

You've seen the book, this webinar is the TV show based on the book

"A thoughtful, data-driven and extraordinarily useful analysis of key themes shaping the global higher education landscape." – Philip G. Altbach, Founding Director, Centre for International Higher Education, Boston College, USA

INTRODUCTION

1	Higher education in fast moving times: Larger, steeper, more global and more contested	Simon Marginson, Claire Callender and William Locke
2	Visions of higher education futures: The shape of things to come?	William Locke

GLOBAL FACTORS IN HIGHER EDUCATION

3	The world research system: Expansion, diversification, network and hierarchy	Simon Marginson
4	International students in UK: Global mobility versus national migration politics	Simon Marginson
5	Feeling the Brexit shock: European connectedness and the existential crisis in UK higher education	Simon Marginson, Vassiliki Papatsiba, Xin Xu

FINANCING AND WIDENING PARTICIPATION

6	Global higher education financing: The income contingent loans revolution	Bruce Chapman, Lorraine Dearden and Dung Doan
7	Student loan debt: Longer term implications for graduates in the United States and England	Claire Callender, KC Deane, Ariane de Gayardon and Stephen L. DesJardins
8	Widening participation in the UK: The possibilities and the limits	Vikki Boliver, Stephen Gorard and Nadia Siddiqu

TEACHING AND LEARNING

9	Teaching excellence: Principles for developing effective system-wide approaches	Paul Ashwin
10	Assessment for social justice: Achievement, uncertainty and recognition	Jan McArthur
11	MOOCs and professional development: The global potential of online collaboration	Diana Laurillard and Eileen Kennedy

GRADUATES AND WORK

- |           |                                                                                                                  |                                |
|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 12 | Graduate employment and under-employment: Trends and prospects in high participation systems of higher education | Francis Green and Golo Henseke |
|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|

INSTITUTIONS AND MARKETS

- |           |                                                                                       |                                   |
|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 13 | Commodifying higher education: The proliferation of devices for making markets        | Janja Komeljenovic                |
| 14 | The new private sector in England: Can subsidised colleges break into the mainstream? | Stephen A. Hunt and Vikki Boliver |

PUBLIC AND SOCIAL BENEFIT

- |           |                                                                                                   |                                  |
|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 15 | Undergraduate education in South Africa: To what extent does it support personal and public good? | Paul Ashwin and Jennifer M. Case |
| 16 | Higher education in China: Rethinking it as a common good                                         | Lin Tian and Nian C. Liu         |
| 17 | Public and common goods: Key concepts in mapping the contributions of higher education            | Simon Marginson                  |

You've seen the book, this webinar is the TV show based on the book

“A vivid snapshot of higher education development in a world during the surge of populism and before the pandemic. It serves extremely well as a timely awakening. Its themes, contents and contributing authors from the research team reminds us of the pressing need for our concerted efforts in defending further integration on a global scale.” – Rui Yang, Professor and Associate Dean of Education, University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

